

Deer Tick

Coloring Instructions: Color the legs, head, and upper back black. Color the rest of the tick dark brown.

Interesting Fact: This tick is different than the fat squishy ticks you might see on your dog or cat. Instead of being soft, deer ticks have a hard protective shell. They can carry Lyme disease and give it to people they bite. If you are bitten by a tick and a red, circular rash appears around the bite, you may have contracted Lyme disease. This disease can be treated if you go to the doctor as soon as you notice the rash.
